

Take Charge of Your Future –

Does one of the following scenarios describe your situation?

- You are about to graduate from high school and are considering further education
- You are enrolled in an associate's degree program, but undecided on a particular course of study
- You are enrolled in a bachelor's degree program, but undecided on a particular course of study
- You're ready to make a career change

If you are looking for a fast-paced, forward moving, never-a-dull-moment career, consider becoming a paralegal. NFPA, the recognized leader in certification for the advanced paralegal, has developed and launched a certification exam which will provide certification for new paralegals with limited experience.

The Paralegal CORE Competency Exam is the FIRST step on the Career Path of a Professional Paralegal!

Being a paralegal is an exciting and rewarding profession. Read on for more information about this exciting new opportunity!

More detailed information, including the exam blueprint, is provided in the PCC Exam Candidate Handbook (See Appendix A) available on the NFPA website.

For Professionals By Professionals

Using the same statistically defensible, scientific, psychometrically sound exam development methodology as that used to develop the Paralegal Advanced Competency Exam (PACE), the PCC Exam was developed in partnership with Professional Examination Services (PES – see www.proexam.org), a testing organization with more than 60 years of experience in the development and administration of licensing and certification exams.

The PCC Exam is designed to test the core competencies in early-career and entry-level paralegals and takes into account coursework in paralegal programs as well as actual skills considered essential to basic competency in the profession. The exam also covers law office technology and ethics. The PCC Exam validates the competency of those who successfully complete the exam and distinguishes them from other paralegals who do not possess the CRP credential.

Purposes of the PCC Exam:

- to provide the groundwork for expanding paralegal roles and responsibilities;
- to provide the public and legal community with a mechanism to gauge the core competencies of paralegals;
- to be used in states considering the regulation of paralegals; and
- to be used by paralegal programs as an exit exam or Assurance of Learning tool.

Benefits of Paralegal Certification

The paralegal profession receives two major benefits from the PCC Exam:

- a fair evaluation of the competencies of paralegals across practice areas; and
- creation of a professional level of expertise by which all paralegals can be evaluated.

Eligibility Requirements for the PCC Exam

Criteria for eligibility were established for those interested in taking the PCC Exam:

- Bachelor's degree in any subject, plus a paralegal certificate; no experience or CLE required; OR
